

Josh Woodruff
Executive Chef

Chef Josh Woodruff was born in Charlotte, NC where he lived for 3 years before moving to Anchorage, Alaska. While growing up in Alaska he worked a variety of jobs, including his first kitchen experience. When his family moved to Boone, NC he continued spending his free time in a restaurant environment working in all positions from a busboy all the way to Head Line Chef. From there Josh knew that culinary was his true calling & continued his formal education at Johnson & Wales University specializing in ethnic foods & classical French cuisine.

After graduating from JWU in 2002 with a degree in culinary education, Josh continued his career at a variety of well-known local establishments. He found his true southern style beginning at Slightly Up the Creek, moving on to Cordavi as their Sous Chef & eventually becoming the Executive Chef at the Boathouse on Breach Inlet. His true talent lies in offering a personalized restaurant experience at all Resort functions. Josh continues to push to give all guests an inventive & exciting take on Carolina Cuisine focusing on the freshest, local ingredients available.
